Dear Fellow Saints in Battle,

Be encouraged with this thought:

“Let the LORD fight your battles. He hasn’t lost one yet.”

I remember when our children became teenagers. It seemed they transformed from being human to only God knows what. Then, when they turned 20 years old, they returned back to humanity. Perhaps you felt the same way with your children? If not, you were among the blessed few. One truth I learned and practiced was to choose my battles wisely. Not everything they said or did was worth a proverbial fight. I tried to rely on God the Holy Spirit’s wisdom as they matured and developed to determine what was and what was not worth fighting over.

If you’ve been under my ministry, listening to me teach and share God’s Word for any amount of time, then you have heard me ask: Is your life more like a “Cruise Ship” or a “Battle Ship”? Each one is outfitted very differently. Each one has a purpose very different from the other. Which motif would describe you?

By all means, join us shoulder-to-shoulder in battle, learning how to become the best soldier for the Lord’s army you can be.
